

All I Want Is You

I watched from afar
As you came into my life like a shooting star.
We are one year apart
But seeing you heals my bleeding heart.
The guitar you play,
Creates desires that overstay.
Every time I pass you
It is your arms I want to run into.
You keep walking
As I am left gawking.
Will you, one day, turn around?
Or maybe it is I who should back down?
I'll be left behind
Because all love does is make you blind.
Aching for your love,
Praying to the God above.
All you will ever want is her
A feeling that to me, will never transfer.
